

Matt Metzger, originally from Big Rock, Illinois, enlisted in the United States Marine Corps shortly after graduating high school. He was assigned to Marine Tactical Air Command Squadron 48 as an A/C mechanic. He deployed in 2007 with the 6th Provisional Security Company as a machine gunner, to Djibouti, Africa to support Operation Enduring Freedom. Upon his return, he attended Western Illinois University and completed his bachelor's degree with a double major in Law Enforcement and Justice Administration, and Political Science. He remains active in the veteran community with his work at Grunt Style, a veteran owned and operated apparel company in Carol Stream, IL. His current position is the Director of Custom Sales. He spends his free time with his wife Lauren and two children Knox and Kennedy. He is also an accomplished competitive three-gun shooter, and travels the country competing.
